

ERIN THORP

Erin is a professional engineer, project manager, author, & coach. Not one to back down from a challenge, she has been disrupting the default her entire life. After being told to “fix her emotional self” for the better part of her career, Erin set out on to learn how to harness the power of empathy and use it as an effective tool to lead high performing teams. Based on her own experience and training, Erin is passionate about teaching, mentoring, and coaching others to embrace their emotions, connect with empathy, and deeply engage the people they lead. She believes that the very foundation of building inclusive, diverse teams is to recognize, celebrate, and leverage our differences.

AUDIENCE

Leaders of all types, especially newly-promoted front-line female leaders

FULL BOOK TITLE

Inside Out Empathy: Explore the Underestimated Superpower Necessary for Building, Developing, and Inspiring a Rock Solid Team

SPEAKING TOPICS

- > The other “f” word - feelings!
- > Learning how to listen
- > Why performance management matters
- > Empathy & engagement

INTERVIEW QUESTIONS

- > Why do you feel we need to talk about empathy in leadership?
- > How has developing empathy impacted your own professional path?
- > How is your work disrupting current norms in leadership?
- > What is the one thing the listeners can do today to be more empathetic?

CONTACT

- > Website: www.erinthorp.ca
- > Email: erin@erinthorp.ca
- > Phone: 403-703-4404
- > Skype: elthorp
- > Facebook: <https://www.facebook.com/elfsolutionsinc/>
- > Instagram: elthorp
- > Twitter: @erin_thorp
- > LinkedIn: <https://www.linkedin.com/in/erin-thorp-03775b34/>

